

A guide to your child's end of term report

Dear parents and carers

Schools are required to give parents a written report once a year. At Pensford, we think it is important to keep you informed about your child's progress much more regularly than that. Many of you have told us that you appreciate the ability to keep in touch with your child's personal achievements through Class Dojo. We hope that this system combines well with informal and formal opportunities to talk to your child's class teacher in helping you to know how happy and engaged your child is in school.

In addition, the teaching staff have developed this report format for giving you updates on your child's academic achievements six times a year. We have produced this guide to help you understand the new layout. If you do still have questions about it the parent evenings in the first week after half term are deliberately timed to give you the opportunity to ask them.

The colour-coding in the percentages boxes is a response to parent feedback. The red shading indicates that your child is behind in this subject and is therefore receiving extra support. The pale green indicates that your child is within the range of what is normally expected for their year group at this stage of the year. A darker green shows that your child is doing particularly well, being well ahead of the expectation.

Please do contact me, perhaps via Class Dojo or through the school office, if you have any further queries.
